

lights on for motorcycles and EMs seem practical and ensure the cyclist is seen given his/her exposure to metal, concrete, etc..
DRLs will not only frustrate the glare we see every day on the roads, but will lessen the safety for both the motorcyclist and EMs when all vehicles are glaring the same. This is a ridiculous mandate and seem to only profit the politician and parts manufacturers.